

Green Proclamation-March 2010

Morehead State University recognizes the importance of good stewardship and personal responsibility for the preservation and protection of our planet, its resources, and the quality of life thereon. We believe that colleges and universities must exercise leadership in their communities by modeling programs and activities to promote the thoughtful and efficient use of resources and reducing the emission of greenhouse gases whenever possible.

The Morehead State University Green Committee has been established to promote programs and increase awareness of such programs and ideas. The Committee, a coalition of faculty, staff and students, has my support for the activities it will conduct in pursuit of these goals.

Earth Day was established in 1970 to promote awareness of environmental issues affecting the Earth's environment. Earth Day is celebrated annually on April 22. In that respect, I proclaim April 22, 2010 as Earth Day on Morehead State University's campuses.

Wayne D. Andrews, President
Morehead State University